INSTRUCTIONS FOR RESUSCITATION

FROM ELECTRICAL SHOCK BY THE PRONE PRESSURE METHOD

Follow these instructions Even if Victim Appears Dead

The First Thing to be Done is to Send for a Doctor

If other persons are present when an accident occurs, send one of them for a doctor without a moment's delay. If alone with the patient, do not neglect the immediate and continued resuscitation of the patient for at least one hour before calling a doctor to assist in further resuscitation efforts.

FREE THE VICTIM FROM THE CIRCUIT IMMEDIATELY. Quickly release the victim from the current, being very careful to avoid receiving a shock. Use any dry non-conductor (Rubber gloves, clothing, wood, rope, etc.) to move either the victim or the conductor. Beware of using metal or any moist material. If both of the victim's hands are grasping live conductors endeavor to free them one at a time. If necessary shut off current.

Begin at once to get the subject to breathe (resuscitation) for a moment of delay is serious. Use "Prone Pressure Method" for four (4) hours if necessary or until a doctor has advised that rigor mortis has set in.

OBSERVE THE FOLLOWING PRECAUTIONS. The victim's loose clothing, if dry, may be used to pull him away; do not touch the soles or heels of his shoes while he remains in contact—the nails are dangerous. If this is impossible, use rubber gloves, a dry coat, a dry rope a dry stick or board, or any other dry non-conductor to move either the victim or the conductor, so as to break the electrical contact.

If the bare skin of the victim must be touched by your hands, be sure to cover them with rubber gloves, mackintosh, rubber sheeting or dry cloth; or stand on a dry board or on some other dry insulating surface. If possible, use only one hand.

If the man receives a shock while on a pole, first see that his belt is secure around the pole. If possible above cross arm so victim will not fall, then break the current. Pass a hand-line under his arms, preferably through his body belt, securely knot it, and pass the end of the line over the first cross arm above the victim. If you are alone, pass the line once around this cross arm. If you are not alone, drop the line to those at the base of the pole. As soon as the rope is taut, free the victim's safety belt and spurs and descend the pole, guiding the victim. When the victim is about three feet from the ground lower rapidly so that the victim's feet hit the ground hard.

Open the nearest switch, if that is the quickest way to break the circuit. If necessary to cut a live wire use an ax or a hatchet with a dry wooden handle, turning your face away to protect it from electrical flash.

ATTEND INSTANTLY TO VICTIM'S BREATHING. As soon as the victim is clear of the live conductor, quickly feel with your finger in his mouth and throat and remove any foreign body (tobacco, false teeth, etc.). If the mouth is tight shut, pay no attention to the above-mentioned instructions until later, but immediately begin resuscitation. The patient will breathe through his nose and after resuscitation has been carried on a short time, the jaws will probably relax, and any foreign substance in the mouth can then be removed. Do not stop to loosen the patient's clothing; every moment of delay is serious.

Lay the patient on his belly, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at elbow and with the face resting on hand or forearm so that the nose and mouth are free for breathing. (See Figure 1.)

Kneel straddling the patient's knees with the knees just opposite the patient's knees or lower part of thighs. Place the palms of the hands on the small of the back with fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, the thumb alongside of the fingers, the tips of the fingers just out of sight.

With arms held straight swing forward slowly so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear upon the subject (see Figure 2). This operation which should take from two or three seconds, must not be violent—internal organs may be injured. The lower part of the chest and also the abdomen are thus compressed and air is forced out of the lungs, the diaphragm is kept in natural motion, other organs are massaged and the circulation of the blood accelerated. Pressure is exerted on the victim's lower chest, with the removal of the pressure there should be the sound of air rushing into the lungs.

Now immediately swing backward so as to completely remove the pressure, thus returning to the position shown in Figure 3. Through their elasticity, the chest walls expand, and the pressure being removed the diaphragm descends, and the lungs are thus supplied with fresh air.

After two seconds swing forward again. Thus repeat deliberately twelve to fifteen times a minute the double movement of compression and release—a complete respiration in four or five seconds. If a watch or clock is not visible, follow the natural rate of your own deep breathing, the proper rate may be determined by counting—swinging forward with each expiration and backward with each inspiration.

As soon as this artificial respiration has been started and while it is being continued an assistant should loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest or waist. (KEEP THE PATIENT WARM.)

Place ammonia near the nose determining safe distance by first trying how near it may be held to your own. Then the assistant should hit the patient's shoe heels about twenty (20) times with a stick and repeat this operation about every five minutes until breathing commences. Do not give any liquids whatever by mouth until the patient is fully conscious. Continue artificial respiration without interruption (if necessary for four hours) until natural breathing is restored. Cases are on record of success after three and one-half hours of effort. The ordinary tests for death are not conclusive in cases of electric shock and doctors must be so advised by YOU, if necessary.

When the patient revives he should be kept prone (lying down) and not allowed to get up or be raised under any consideration unless on the advice of a doctor. If the doctor has not arrived by the time the patient has revived, he should be given some stimulant, such as one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water, or a drink of hot ginger tea or coffee.

The patient should than have any other injuries attended to and be kept warm, being placed in the most comfortable position. Resuscitation should be carried on at the nearest possible point to where the patient received his injuries. He should not be moved from this point until he is breathing normally of his own volition and then moved only in a lying position. Should it be necessary, due to extreme weather conditions, etc., to move the patient before he is breathing normally, he should be kept in a prone position and placed upon a hard surface (door or shutter) or on the floor of a conveyance, resuscitation being carried on during the time that he is being moved.

A brief return of spontaneous respiration is not a certain indication for terminating the treatment. Not infrequently the patient, after a temporary recovery of respiration, stops breathing again. The patient must be watched and if normal breathing stops, artificial respiration should be resumed at once.

FIRST CARE OF BURNS. When natural respiration has been restored then consideration should be given to the treatment of the burns themselves. As a rule such treatment can be deferred until the arrival of the Doctor. However, if a considerable time may elapse before the Doctor's services can be obtained, then it is important to remember that a raw or blistered surface should be protected from the air.

The Standard First-Aid Packet will provide suitable sterile gauze with adherent sterile bandage, so that same may be used to cover the burned area. If the clothing sticks do not attempt to peel it off, but cut around it, leaving the cloth adherent to the wound.

Before applying the dressing from the Standard First-Aid Packet, the "Burn Ointment" may be gently applied, if available, or a solution of Baking Soda, one teaspoonful to a pint of water; or the wound may be protected with vaseline, olive oil, castor oil, caron oil, or machine oil if same is clean. If the Standard First-Aid Packet is not available, the wound may be covered with cotton, gauze, lint, clean waste or handkerchief, or other soft clean cloth held lightly in place by a bandage.

If the wound is a dry, charred burn, do not apply oily dressing or the sodium bicarbonate solution to it, but simply cover with a dry dressing and await the coming of the doctor.

In case of burns from handling batteries, or in the handling of acids, then the saturated solution of sodium bicarbonate is to be used, and the wound covered with a sterile dressing pending further attention by the doctor.

It is most important, therefore, that each employe should thoroughly familiarize himself with these approved methods, and in case of such accident, then be ready to render the prompt and intelligent treatment that would mean the saving of a life.

The prone pressure method of resuscitation as above outlined should also be used in cases of gas poisoning, suffocation from any cause, strangulation or drowning. In drowning, it is always well to have body on a slight incline with the head low, in order to favor drainage of water from the lungs.
